C. L. HOLDEN'S ENDORSEMENT COUNTED BIG
Lost Creek Man's Praise of Nerv-Worth Cures Many Friends to Buy the Tonic at Burke's.
This remarkable endorsement of Nerv-Worth, recently received at Burke's drug store, where the tonic is sold exclusively in Clarksburg, came from Mr. C. L. Holden, who, after declaring that he had suffered with sour stomach for 25 years, added: "Have tried about all the medicines I have ever heard of and a good many doctors and could get nothing that would stop that sourness till I got your Nerv-Worth."
Mr. Holden continued to say that when he had taken a half bottle of Nerv-Worth the sourness was almost taken away. "Can eat most anything I want now," he adds. "My stomach was as sour as vinegar and I would have to vomit it up until I began to take Nerv-Worth. I recommend Nerv-Worth to my friends and to all sufferers."
These are words used by Mr. Holden over his own signature. Note the fact that less than a bottle of Nerv-Worth began the work of banishing stomach troubles that had lasted for a quarter of a century.
Your dollar back at Burke's if Nerv-Worth fails to help your nervous ills. And remember that Nerv-Worth is good for sick and nervous headache, pains in head, back, side and chest, for indigestion, nervousness and for run-down conditions in general.—Advertisement.

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR
She Mixed Sulphur with It to Restore Color, Gloss, Thickness.
Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.
While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. In morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after an application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Advertisement.

An Old, Family Cough Remedy, Home-Made
Easily Prepared—Costs Very Little, but is Prompt, Sure and Effective
By making this pint of old-time cough syrup at home you not only save about 32¢ as compared with the ready-made kind, but you will also have a much more prompt and positive remedy in every way. It overcomes the usual coughs, throat and chest colds in 24 hours—relieves even whooping cough quickly—and is excellent, too, for bronchitis, bronchial asthma, hoarseness and spasmodic cough.
Get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pinex (30 cents worth), pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Full directions with Pinex. Keeps perfectly and tastes good.
You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. It quickly loosens the dry, hoarse or painful cough and heats the inflamed membranes. It also has a remarkable effect in overcoming the persistent loose cough by stopping the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes.
The effect of Pinex on the membranes is known by almost every one. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract combined with gaulther and other natural healing pine elements.
There are many worthless imitations of this famous mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and do not accept anything else.
A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

FINE BY CRADDOCK PRONOUNCED ILLEGAL

Decision of the United States Supreme Court is Cited by Mr. Pengra.
James A. Pengra, of Pittsburgh, western Pennsylvania and West Virginia agent of the Shredded Wheat Company, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., submits the following in connection with the act of Mayor Craddock of Broad Oaks in imposing a fine on W. E. Fulmer recently:
"In the issue of the Exponent-American, on Tuesday, February 10 the Honorable Joseph N. Craddock, mayor of Broad Oaks, made the statement that the Telegram was misinformed regarding the fine paid by W. E. Fulmer of the Shredded Wheat Company. As evidence that it is the Exponent-American that is badly deceived and misled, Mr. W. E. Fulmer has a receipt for $10.40 signed by said Craddock. Also he made the statement that the United States supreme court has never passed on the illegality of an ordinance such as that under discussion. As absolute proof that he has made another statement that is not true I am enclosing extracts from several copies of various suits showing that the United States supreme court has already passed on the questions and has decided in favor of the position and attitude that your present mayor of Clarksburg takes.
"I dislike very much to see the mayor of a progressive, up-to-date town like Clarksburg reviled and abused because he does not act in the same manner on some of the old Blue laws that may be on the statute books as others with decidedly less discernment. A mayor is not necessarily elected to enforce all the laws in existence, but to use the power of his office with discretionary judgment.
"Real American towns with twentieth century ideals are not following in the footsteps of some old Chinese highbinder society; nor do they have to steep themselves in the sins of the foot-pad and highwayman in order to put a dollar in the treasury."
Judge Bradley's Decision.
United States supreme court decides a manufacturer's agent can make a distribution of advertising matter in every town in the United States without paying a license.
In the Supreme Court of the United States, 120 page, 489 United States reports, Robbins vs. Shelby county tax collector, Justice Bradley, delivering the opinion of the court, says:
"The only way commerce between states can be legitimately effected by state law is by virtue of its police power, but in making any such internal regulations a state cannot impose taxes upon persons passing through the state, or coming into it for a temporary purpose, especially in connection with interstate commerce."
In discussing the various ways in which a merchant or manufacturer from one state may solicit orders in another state, Justice Bradley says:
"It may be suggested that merchants or manufacturers have the postoffice at their command and may solicit orders through the mail. We do not suppose, however, that anyone would contend that this is the only way in which could be solicited without being amenable to exactions on the part of the state. Besides, why could not the state to which letters might be sent tax them for soliciting orders in this way, as well as in any other way?"
Further along in the opinion it is said:
"But to tax the sale of goods, or the offer to sell them, before goods are brought into the state is a very different thing and is clearly a tax on interstate commerce itself."
Interstate commerce cannot be taxed at all, even though the same amount of tax should be laid on domestic commerce, or that which is carried on solely within the state; this was decided in the case of the state freight tax cases, 15 Wall. 232.
In the case of Angove vs. City of Columbus, No. 3870, court of common pleas, Franklin county, O., the Hon. Thomas M. Bigger, judge, in rendering his decision says:
"Does not the levying of a tax or other restriction upon citizens of other states for selling or seeking to sell their goods affect the very foundations of interstate trade?"
It will be seen from language quoted that the supreme court of the United States regards any restriction imposed upon freedom of commerce between the states as a violation of the federal constitution, whether it be a license on sales or a mere offer to sell.
In this case it may be said it was not selling but only distributing advertising matter, the purpose of which, however, was to secure sales of goods manufactured in another state; and the state of Ohio under the decision cited, has no power to impose a restriction upon the offering for sale—in this case the distribution of advertising matter.
There is a long line of decisions to the same effect by the Supreme Court of the United States which is not necessary here to cite. I am clearly of the opinion that the ordinance requiring payment of license, under which the defendant was convicted, is clearly unconstitutional and void, as well as the act of the legislature to authorize cities to enact such an ordinance.

MAY DISCOVER WAR LEADERS WITH TALENT

Among Young Officers and Men of Army Prevented from Showing Latest Gift.
PARIS, Feb. 15.—Prof. Aulard, distinguished for his historical studies on the French revolutionary period, has a theory on the possibility of discovering military leaders of talent, possibly some of genius, among young officers and men who are prevented by the hierarchical system in all armies from disclosing any particularly latent gift of generalship.
"When France alone was facing in 1793 the most formidable European coalition it has ever withstood singlehanded," says Prof. Aulard, "it was saved by the appearance of exceptional generals, such as Hoche, Jourdan, Moreau and finally Bonaparte. Their talents were discovered by a system of close observation on the part, not only of the deputies with official missions, but by the personal contact of members of the government with troops. By mixing and talking with the men, those officers who had their confidence and aroused their enthusiasm were discovered. Advancement was then of the swiftest. Lazare Hoche, for example, who in the beginning of 1793, was a simple captain, was appointed brigadier general in the autumn of the same year at 25 years of age."
Prof. Aulard declares that a similar system for the advancement of new men in the army would be both possible and desirable today. But it

My friends began asking me why I looked so well, and I told them about Cardui. Several are now taking it."

Finding a sensible cigarette is just plain, common sense

All you have to do is to look for three points. Take any cigarette you know. Then ask yourself—
Is its taste just what you like best?
Is it comfortable to your throat and tongue—free from bite or hotness?
Will it allow you to smoke as often as you'd like to smoke without any mean after-feeling?
Fatimas aren't the only cigarettes that answer "yes" on all of these points. There are other sensible cigarettes. But facts seem to indicate that Fatimas are the sensible cigarette for most men. Because they now outsell every other cigarette in the world costing over 5c.
Doesn't it seem reasonable that you, too, will like Fatima best? Try them—TODAY.
Loggia's Magazine
FATIMA was the Only Cigarette Awarded the Grand Prize, the highest award given to any cigarette at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition.
"Distinctly Individual"

FATIMA
THE TURKISH BLEND
A Sensible Cigarette
The taste of the cigarette—according to a leading tobacco journal—is up to the point that you are going to look for in the steady smoke. Here are a couple of tests that may help the average smoker to choose more wisely between different kinds of cigarettes.
The first test is for coolness, which means more comfort to the throat and tongue. Light any cigarette. Draw in a puff and hold it for a few seconds. Let it "float" around against your tongue. If the cigarette contains a high grade of mild tobacco leaves, combined in just the right proportion, it will always feel cool and smooth both to your throat and to your tongue.
On the other hand, if the proportion of mild tobacco is not right, the cigarette means more discomfort to the throat and tongue. Light any cigarette. Draw in a puff and hold it for a few seconds. Let it "float" around against your tongue. If the cigarette contains a high grade of mild tobacco leaves, combined in just the right proportion, it will always feel cool and smooth both to your throat and to your tongue.
Interior grades of tobacco or hidden strands of rank, city leaf, you will feel or that "bad taste" tickle in your throat after smoking all day?
If the tobacco in the cigarette includes all of the various grades have been properly blended as to bring out the best qualities in each of the different types of tobacco, you will be able to smoke practically where you feel like it throughout the day without feeling any effect from it.
But with another cigarette in which the blend is less skillful, even though the tobacco is of the highest grade, you will find along towards the end of the day that you are likely to have that feeling of having "smoked too much."

would be necessary that members of the government personally surveyed the troops in action, as Carnot, minister of war, and Saint-Just did in 1793-4.
It might seem that experiment with new leaders entails a greater risk today than in former times, when armies were counted by thousands and instead of by millions, but Prof. Aulard is inclined to the contrary. "A pitched battle, lost or won a hundred years ago," said he, "could not put new leaders to the test without not necessarily spell disaster."
